Samuel Lim
Chairman

MercyLight Animal Rescue and Sanctuary (MARS) has now been an Institution of Public Character (IPC) for three years. This necessitates constant vigilance to ensure our governance structure and controls are robust. The Board diligently reviews processes and ensures compliance.

One of the challenges we face is succession planning. We actively seek capable individuals to step forward and join our board.

In 2023, we rescued 24 dogs and rehomed 12. We also rehomed about 12 small animals, including rabbits, birds, cats, and chinchillas. Currently, we care for around 140 dogs.

Message

From the Chairman

Our dedicated volunteer network remains consistent, with approximately 100 volunteers helping us operate the shelter. These volunteers work in two shifts, assisting with feeding, walking the dogs, and making veterinary runs as needed. The shelter relies entirely on volunteers and has no paid staff.

We run several Corporate Social Responsibility programmes. Notably, a large group of about 200 students from the National University of Singapore (NUS) volunteered to learn about how animal shelters operate in Singapore.

We held our annual Chinese New Year walk at Marina Bay and Christmas walk at Orchard Road, with approximately 100 dogs and their human companions. These events aimed to give shelter dogs a chance to walk outside the shelter environment and introduce Singapore Specials to the public.

We continuously conduct obedience training for our shelter dogs to ensure they are well-trained and more readily adopted.

With Faith, Hope, and Charity, we look forward to rescuing more animals in the coming year.

Our Work

A Year of Second Chances

This year, our dedicated team made a real difference for 140 dogs. Whether under our shelter roof, in loving foster homes, or roaming free but cared for, every dog received the attention and support they needed.

With unwavering dedication to rescue, rehabilitation, and rehoming, we're getting closer to our vision: a world where every stray has a chance to thrive. This report highlights the impactful work we accomplished together, offering these animals a much-deserved second chance at life.

Our Work

Rescue Efforts

Saving Lives, One Dog at a Time

In 2023, Mercylight's rescue efforts brought 24 dogs into our care. Other than the 4 deserving dogs given a second chance after entering the Animal & Veterinary Service (AVS), our Trap-Neuter-Rehome/Release-Manage (TNRM) program stepped up to answer the call for 20 dogs in desperate situations. Our compassionate volunteers reacted swiftly to emergencies, rescuing everything from lost puppies by a busy road to dogs with serious wounds.

Some animals required immediate medical attention, including surgery. In one heartwarming case, a pregnant rescue dog, named Rainbow, gave birth to a litter of seven healthy pups safe within the shelter's safe haven. Mercylight's unwavering commitment extends to every dog in need, whether through rescue or redemption.

Our Work

Beyond Rescue

Preparing Dogs for Forever Homes

Mercylight's dedication goes beyond saving strays – we give them a fresh start. Our rescue efforts encompass not just physical care but also behavioral training and socialization. Our certified trainers use positive reinforcement techniques to teach shelter dogs desired behaviors, while our dedicated volunteers shower them with love and attention. This winning combination increases each dog's adoptability and helps them find their forever families sooner.

Here's what sets us apart:

Open concept kennels: Instead of being confined to cages, our open concept allows for social interaction and a more natural environment. The dogs roam freely, fostering a sense of community rather than isolation.

Twice-daily walks: Our volunteers dedicate quality time, giving each dog two 20-minute walks a day. These morning and evening strolls provide much-needed exercise, mental stimulation, and a chance to explore the world.

Our volunteers go the extra mile: They provide twice-daily care that includes administering medications, cleaning and dressing wounds, and even assisting with rehabilitation exercises, massages, and heat pad treatments. This dedication ensures our dogs receive the best possible medical care while they recover in our shelter.

Success stories in 2023: 12 dogs found their perfect matches, creating joy for both humans and canines. We're proud to share heartwarming testimonials from adoptive families – a testament to the impact of our work.

Our Work

“We don’t subscribe to the idea of buying dogs, especially when there are already so many precious dogs in shelters looking for a forever home. We also hear these heartwarming and at times, heartbreaking stories from family and friends who volunteer at shelters. Our cousin volunteers weekly at MercyLight and we both think that the shelter is doing an amazing job caring for these dogs. So the moment we felt ready to have a dog, we went directly and only to MercyLight.” - Grace & Vinny

Love, patience, and perseverance helped Hedy and Kelvin overcome the struggles of adopting a challenging dog with biting habits.

“I was on Facebook one day, and saw a post about Casper that really touched me. I decided to reach out to MercyLight to enquire about the possibility of adopting him ...Two weeks into fostering Casper, he continued to display biting behavior, making us question if we were the right fit for him. We gave it a lot of thought, and decided to continue trying. We realized it wasn't his fault that he had developed these habits, and he was already traumatised from being passed from home to home. We also told Casper every day that he belonged here and that we loved him. Over time, we could see a transformation – his eyes softened, and he started to feel like a true part of our family.”

Beyond Sheltering

Building a Compassionate Community through Engagement

Mercylight's commitment to animal welfare extends far beyond rescuing and rehoming dogs. We actively engage with the community, fostering a deeper understanding of animal welfare issues and the vital role shelters play in our society.

Through our Community Engagement Program, we hosted hands-on kennel sessions for over 300 participants! This included 240 students from the National University of Singapore and 60 individuals from various organizations. These sessions aren't just informative, they're transformative. Participants gain firsthand experience caring for dogs, learning about animal behavior, and understanding the challenges shelters face. This not only builds empathy but also inspires many to get involved in supporting animal welfare causes. By educating and engaging the community, we build a stronger support network for animals in need. This translates into increased volunteer applications, more responsible pet ownership practices, and ultimately, a brighter future for stray dogs.

As part of a student initiative at the National University of Singapore College of Alice and Peter Tan (CAPT), NUS students participating in the People & Animal Community Engagement (PACE) programme got their hands dirty and joined regular volunteers at Mercylight weekly for 10 weeks.

Our Work

The Heartbeat of Mercylight

Our Incredible Volunteers

Despite ongoing challenges in animal welfare, our kennel volunteers remain a constant source of love and care for the animals. Their commitment to safety and well-being, combined with their selfless giving of time and energy, has made a profound impact on the lives of countless dogs. These 100 heroes are the heart and soul of Mercylight.

A Dedicated Team: Around 75% of our volunteers dedicate an average of 5 hours each week, contributing a remarkable 19,500 hours of service annually – a testament to their unwavering commitment. This unwavering dedication translates to:

- Steadfast Commitment: Our volunteers show up consistently, providing a reliable and loving presence for the dogs.
- Passionate Support: Their love for animals fuels their commitment to our mission.
- Enduring Spirit: They face obstacles head-on, ensuring the dogs receive the best possible care.

Because of our amazing volunteers, every dog in our care has a chance for a brighter future.

Maggi's Miracle: From Drain to Forever Home

This is a heartwarming story of second chances, and it all starts with a wag! During their evening walk, our shelter dog Hailey alerted volunteers to a tiny ball of fur trapped in a drain near the shelter. This gentle soul, initially named Trips, was malnourished and neglected. Her matted fur, overgrown nails, and teeth in poor condition painted a picture of hardship.

We suspect Trips was abandoned – a heartbreaking reality with no witnesses or CCTV footage to tell her story. Thankfully, Dr. Kitty, our trusted vet, assessed Trips and found no underlying health issues beyond her neglect

Maggi's Miracle

Blooming with Love and Care

Estimated to be between 5 and 10 years old, Trips' sweet personality shone through despite her ordeal. Volunteers Anna and Justin stepped forward as foster parents, showering her with love and care. Trips responded beautifully, her appetite returning and her health improving noticeably. She blossomed into a confident and social dog.

A Forever Family Awaits:

Social media played a key role in Maggi's (Trips' new name!) happy ending. Choon Kiat and Min, a loving couple with experience caring for dogs, saw Maggi's story on Xiaohongshu and knew they had to meet her. They already shared their home with Muffin, a Shih Tzu, and mourned the recent loss of their beloved Milo and Molly. After meeting Maggi, they knew their hearts had room for one more. Their adoption was finalized in September.

Every animal deserves
a loving home.
Together, let's work towards a future
where stories like Maggi's abandonment become a rarity.

Beyond Maggi's Story:

Maggi's story is a beacon of hope, but it also highlights a concerning trend. Animal abandonment is on the rise in Singapore, straining resources for shelters like Mercylight. The reported cases investigated by AVS jumped from 230 in 2019 to 310 in 2022.

Breaking the Cycle:

Many abandoned animals are unmicrochipped, making it difficult to track down owners and hold them accountable. Increased public education about responsible pet ownership is crucial. Additionally, stricter enforcement of regulations, including mandatory microchipping and harsher penalties for abandonment, could act as a deterrent.

Fund Raising Activities

The amounts raised were used for the dogs' medical and shelter operation expenses. There was no commercial fund raiser involved.

Spreading the Word: We'll keep raising awareness about important animal welfare issues like pet abandonment, through impactful advocacy campaigns.

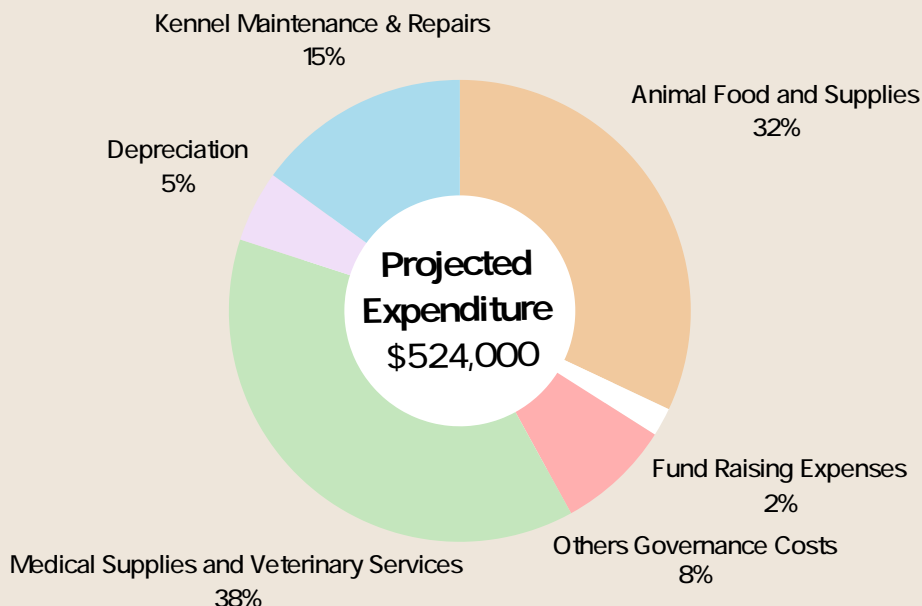

Educating the Future: Through targeted programs, we aim to foster a deeper understanding and appreciation for animal welfare among all age groups, with a particular focus on our youth.
